"The Petroleum County Ambulance is all about Dedication, Commitment and Community"

The Petroleum County Ambulance has humble beginnings. Winnett locals saw a need for a basic ambulance service; they acquired a 1950's Chevy ambulance, concerned citizens signed on and the service was born. Later they purchased a 1966 station wagon equipped with lights and siren as their transport vehicle. The response and care in those early days were fairly rudimentary. "It was more of a throw-and-go service back then," said Garv Gershmel, former ambulance member. "The training was minimal and the distance was so great; they didn't have the equipment there is today, so they didn't mess around." Gershmel became involved with the service in the '80s and his wife Linda got trained in the '90 and was one of the first EMTs on the service. "My mother had COPD and had a spell that she passed away from and we had such a time getting a crew together. So, when I moved to town I got involved. Our crew numbers were low and there was a talk amongst the county commission to drop the service. Several of us took Advanced First Aid training to keep things running." Gary reminisces, "I remember a year that we had three calls on Christmas day, it's sad how it all turned out." But despite having occasional negative patient outcomes, serving on the ambulance was a positive experience for both Gary and Linda. "There is no doubt that the service is an invaluable asset to our community today and the ambulance has come a long way in the care of patients," Gary added.

Today Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) and Advanced EMTs (AEMTs) are required by the state to have 48 and 36 hours of continuing education respectfully as well as take a lengthy refresher course every two years. "The training is rigorous." Says AEMT Kate Johnson. "Becoming an emergency responder is a commitment in time and energy. Once you go through the initial training and pass the state test, you are dedicated to staying current on your licensing, because nobody wants to repeat that process." Despite the rigors of licensing and renewal Johnson clearly states, "After all is said and done, serving on the ambulance is extremely rewarding. It can be difficult too, because we know almost everyone in the county, and not every run has a positive outcome. But at the end of a call, when you have time to reflect, you know it was worth it because someone needed help and you were there for them." All of the 14 ambulance volunteers are required to meet the training requirements and have done so year after year quietly in the shadows, often with little or no recognition of their dedication to this essential service and the Winnett community.

"There are people on this service that have been crew 20+ years, that means they have put several hundred hours into maintaining their licenses in addition to hours spent on actual runs. Runs generally take 4-6 hours, so anyone responding knows that their family and other projects, jobs, or appointments will have to be sidelined," added Sig Pugrud, EMT. "That is a huge commitment that often goes unrecognized but is so vital." The PCA coverage area includes the entirety of Petroleum County at 1,656 square miles. The area includes 585 miles of county dirt roads and 52 miles of state ...

"You always gotta eat!" That's what drives the grocery business. Winnett's no exception, beginning in 1909 when Walter Winnett and Oscar Badger opened a general store in one of Walter's ranch buildings. In 1913, Tony Rasmussen bought the merchandise and moved to Main Street. What followed was a cascade of grocery stores that sold, moved, dried up, flourished or burned. The same was true for lumber/hardware businesses. Today's Catholic Church began as a school, then a church, on to Valley Lumber Company and back to a church. By 1921, Winnett's population supported 200 business.

"We just love our elder community," Kardy enthused. "They're our favorite folks and really make our day!"

Fast-forward to 1929. Across from today's Winnett Bar is Block 16. It was the location of the Love Bird Café, Eager Mercantile Company, Shipton Soft Drink, Enterprise Meat Market, the Central Hotel, Mother's Café, and Hub Clothing. Rudy Beck's house and garage and Sol Stormwind's residence were also there. On September 1 at about 4:00pm, the alarm sounded.

Community Spotlight: That's the Breaks

According to the September 6 issue of The Winnett Times, a fire broke out in the back of Eager's Mercantile, cause unknown. All nine structures were destroyed to the tune of $100,000. The resilient owners relocated or rebuilt.

Rolling on to 1985, Gary and Linda Gershmel took possession of that vacant block. They built a handsome pole-barn-style building on it and added groceries. Then, in about 2000, they added hardware supplies. Currently, one structure stands where nine once mashed together. But that one building expanded. In 1991, Gershmel "Stage Stop Inn". added the Eventually the restaurant closed, and the NRCS offices occupied part of the space. Linda and Gary continued to operate Gershmel's General Store, but they began thinking of retirement and decided to sell.

Our "spotlight" begins when Kardy Roundup Hicks. formerly а accountant. married Leonard Eickhoff, a 36-year veteran of Midrivers Telephone Co-op. In about 2004, Kardy began working in Gershmel's. Soon she was preparing the hardware orders. After bit of convincing, she got Gary to transition to a computer system. Passing that "For Sale" sign every day gave rise to Kardy's dream. She began a campaign to convince Leonard they should buy the store. Next, she began submitting the grocery orders. Finally, after a long period of negotiations, they signed the papers.

In June of 2017 "The Breaks" was born!

It was overwhelming at first. After all, Leonard didn't retire from Midrivers until January of 2019. But they had great employees. Connie Fortner was the head clerk...

from the beginning, bustling around with a smile. Kardy's daughter, Lacy Torgerson, is terrific help during the schoolyear. With her penchant for organization, she does the books and ordering. Kim Fullerton keeps shelves stocked and is especially busy on "truck day". She'll pack out your aroceries. too. Their newest employee is Maria Espinoza. They laughed about the time Kardy left Leonard in charge for two weeks. He panicked when he realized he had to place the hardware order, armed with only a ten-second crash course. He and Kardy exchanged frantic phone calls to prevent a catastrophe!

Ever heard of a "reset"? Leonard and Kardy went through, not one, but two, they're glad they did. A and professional from their hardware dealer spent three weeks tearing things down and reassembling the make it more department to functional. Within two weeks, his Associated Foods counterpart arrived and revamped the groceries. These renovations involved new signage, shelving, and flooring. "One of the toughest jobs," Kardy said, "was rooting out the outdated and just-not-They set up moving items." "clearance" and "free" bins. A lot of food items were taken to food banks. The 17,000 square-foot building seems to go forever, but it's wellorganized, bright, and attractive.

The Break's orders must average about $5,800 per week over the year in order to maintain in their "preferred customer" status. Though much of the merchandise arrives on the Associated Foods truck, they must submit separate orders: groceries, meat, bread, water, milk, deli items, ice cream, beer, hardware, general merchandise, pizza/jerky, and the Frito-Lay order. The chip order prompted a tale of woe. Usually, distributers arrive weekly to inventory a store's shelves, remove out-of-date products, and restock. When COVID-19 hit, Frito-Lay discontinued their route to Winnett. Now, The Breaks relies on UPS to deliver large, but lightly-packed boxes of chips. It sometimes takes four brown trucks to deliver the chips order. "We're not very popular with UPS," Leonard chuckled.

The 17,000 square-foot building seems to go forever, but it's well-organized, bright, and attractive.

"COVID didn't slow things down," Leonard commented. "Tourists and bicyclers, are always stopping. We get a lot of calls inquiring about fishing, road, weather or elk conditions. Autumn brings a swarm of hunters seeking to load coolers or buy licenses. One fellow, dubbed "Jersey

Joe" by Kardy, calls ahead with his order, just so they'll have his supplies ready. Even after hunting season, they stay busy. "During the bad 2019 winter," Leonard recalls, "the plows opened a road, and the ranchers hustled in, stocking up before the next storm."

In the future, the Eickhoffs would like to consolidate the check-out counters and extend the entryway closer to the sidewalk, adding concrete and a patio area. They want to improve handicapaccessibility, especially to benefit senior citizens. "We just love our elder community," Kardy enthused. "They're our favorite folks and really make our day!" The Eickhoffs are always eager to help out with community functions. For instance, their doors are open during the Christmas Stroll; Mr. Grinch was there handing out treats.

They meet all kinds. Once, Kardy encountered a Montana gentleman at the Post Office. He'd been to a remote island with no postal service. Instead, a bin is a depository for letters. Tourists rifle through the mail and sort out letters addressed to people in their area. The man was in Winnett seeking out the King Ranch! Kardy helped him out. Amazing how the world shrinks to a small-town with a local grocery that serves a particular ranch! The owners of The Breaks enjoy meeting outsiders as well as serving their neighbors. It's all in a day's work because, after all, "Everyone's gotta eat!".

Superintendent's Message:

The school year seems to be passing so quickly already – the end of the first quarter is October 20th. This month at Winnett School, we have a college mini-tour for the juniors and seniors, a SkillsUSA Leadership conference in Billings, and the District Volleyball tournament in Melstone. In the coming weeks, you'll also see more information on our Student Council fall & Halloween activities, as well as National Honor Society's "Trick or Treat" for the Food Bank. And, don't forget – there is no school on Oct. 21st and 22nd.

We're thankful to be running this school year in-person even with a recent uptick in the number of Covid-19 cases. If your student is not feeling well, we ask that you keep them home out of an abundance of caution so that everybody can stay in school! We'll provide flexibility with the attendance policy to assist. Also, please remember to call the school office by 8:15 am on days that your students are ill or missing school for any other reason, and, if you need to call during "off hours", you can leave a voice mail. If you have questions or concerns, please feel free to call anytime. ~Lindsey Wilkerson

Kindergarten - by Koburn Hoge

Hi, this is KoBurn Hoge bringing you the kindergarten news. We are just getting going with school and having lots of fun. In math we are modeling, counting, and writing 1-5. We have been learning new letters and sounds in reading and phonics. I liked learning about Dr. Sammy in science who studies all kinds of insects. I think a praying mantis is pretty cool and also bees! I look at a bug book every day in school. My favorite thing to do in school is play tag in Mr. Grant's P.E. class. I like to swing at recess. I really like kindergarten with my friends.

First and Second Grade by Kaylee Obrigewitch

Hello! This is Kaylee Obrigewitch, reporting the news from the first and second grade room. We have 11 students in our class this year. We are adding and subtracting in first grade and the second grade is working on place value. We are learning about living and nonliving things in science and the different animal groups. We also did a STEM project in small groups and we got to save Fred. Fred was a gummy worm that had capsized his boat and we had to get his life jacket on him by only touching him with paperclips. In PE, we've played volleyball and football. My favorite book that Mrs. Johnson has read is Two Bobbies. It's about how a dog and a blind cat survive after Hurricane Katrina. I'm super excited to

Third and Fourth Grade by Mrs. Tholt

We are having a great year so far in 3rd and 4th grade. We are learning to be Pax Leaders. We get to play a 'game' and if we win, we get to do a Granny's Wacky Prize. They are short, but fun. We are learning how to read maps in Social Studies and about the weather in science. We are enjoying science because we have gone outside for two lessons. Wonder what we will learn next!

Fifth and Sixth Grade - by Mrs. Grant

To begin our school year, I always like to think of a goal or purpose. If you ask the kids what they are learning, I am sure you might receive the standard reply of "not much." As their teacher, this year I am trying to push them to take control of their learning. I like how Eric Lindros puts it, "It's not necessarily the amount of time you spend at practice that counts; it's what you put into the practice."

As a class, we had a discussion about the saying "The grass is greener where you water it." We decided you only get good at what you practice. So, my challenge to them was what do you want to be good at? How will you get good at it? Most of them love to practice football, volleyball, and other sports so that was the obvious first choice. Eventually there will be more to life. Life is full of math, reading, writing, science, and social studies also known as "work". As a teacher my goal is to help them ask questions, decide to learn, and then we can explore to find the answer. The more we all admit we don't know - the more we can learn and practice learning!

So, you could say we have some pretty big goals for this year and are hoping to grow into them. The next time you ask a 5th or 6th grader, "What are you learning?" I hope they are excited to answer because they have put some time in to learn something.

highway. "Other small services are struggling, hanging on with just a few crew members, so Winnett is very fortunate to have such solid involvement, but we could use more members," Pugrud maintains. "As seasoned veterans near retirement and to avoid burnout with current members, we would love to train more potential volunteers."

"We are always looking for new recruits to join our service," says veteran AEMT Barb Solf. Solf is the most senior member of the crew having dedicated 34 years to helping the communities of Winifred, Moore, Grass Range, and Winnett as an emergency responder. When asked what qualities best make an individual gualified to serve as a responder Solf is guick to respond, "A willingness to say yes, and a sense of community. I think we all get involved because we have felt a need to serve our community and help our friends and neighbors in difficult situations." In the early days of the service when many of the current EMTs were starting out the yearly run total would top 30 calls with 20 being the average. Lately, calls have been steadily increasing, seeing 2020 breaking the record with 54 calls in the calendar year. "A year like 2020 takes its toll on our volunteer crew." remarks Solf. "That is when we really saw our volunteers come together." In true small-town fashion, it's often the difficult times when everyone shows up and does what needs to be done.

Run fees and a small amount of the PILT funds are used to cover medical supplies. fuel. equipment and maintenance. Primarily the service is dependent on donations and grants, which go to the Ambulance Memorial fund and used to purchase new equipment and training of the volunteers. Petroleum County residents have been very generous with their donations to the ambulance service. "In a nutshell, our ambulance would not be what it is today without the continued generous support of Petroleum County residents," states Kim Jensen AEMT and the services treasurer. "We are always grateful when we receive a donation and note of thanks from individuals who have had to use our service. Although not expected, it's a nice pat on the back to be recognized for our dedication to patient care." The ambulance rarely seeks attention and due to HIPPA regulations and a strict confidentiality policy, they are very modest when praised or recognized for their commitment.

THANK YOU to our Petroleum County Ambulance members: Barb Solf, AEMT; Kim Jensen, AEMT; Kate Johnson, AEMT; Glenda Barbula, AEMT; Leslie Iverson, AEMT; Sarah Browning, EMT; Sig Pugrud, EMT; Bonnie Shaw, EMT; Cassie Brinkerhoff, EMT; Shelby Murnion, EMT; Joel Odermann, EMT; Glena Gillett, EMT; Sami Elliott, EMT and Ray Rowton, Driver

It suffices to say our strong community support is vital to maintain a dedicated volunteer ambulance service. If you have been thinking of joining this awesome organization, please know that all training costs are paid for by the service. "The initial cost for the class is paid for by the individual, but as soon as they sign on to our roster. the service will reimburse them," says Bonnie Shaw, EMT and ambulance director. "Our latest recruits, Joel Odermann, Cassie Brinkerhoff, and Shelby Murnion, have all recently joined the service. Joel completed his training in Roundup and Cassie and Shelby completed theirs online, through instruction from the Lewistown Ambulance Service." Winnett is considered a frontier service but virtual learning has definitely allowed them to bridge that distance gap.

The continued existence of our local ambulance service is the result of dedicated volunteers willing to provide the essential service in addition to the continuing financial generosity and moral support of the community.

The Winnett ACES hosted our quarterly public meeting on July 26th at the Petroleum County Courthouse. During the meeting the ACES committees gave their quarterly updates. Some highlights of these updates were as follows:

The Beef in School program continues to be a success with providing locally raised beef for our school lunch programs. The Land committee has been working on options for young producers and landowner needs in our surrounding areas. This includes coordination with the Rancher's Stewardship Alliance to define how best to connect landowners wanting to lease to young/beginning producers who are wanting to lease. The community enhancement committee continues to work with Petroleum County to put the 2nd story court house space to better use. A feasibility study has been completed and indicates the possibility of office space and apartments. Donations, various grants, and volunteers have provided funding for the purchase of 4 city lots, pouring foundation, and site prep for the future home of the Oddfellows building. There is an informal group working on establishing a small meat processing facility in the area. Discussion is also ongoing regarding a community development investment co-op. The education committee reported that there was a total of 80 attendees to the Nicole Masters Soil Workshop hosted in June. Stay tuned for more educational workshops in the upcoming year. The conservation committee reported that 3 phases of rangeland improvement projects have been completed or in various stages of completion. These includes 10 producers from within the Musselshell plains area. There will be additional funds available for producers interested in cost share projects on their properties.

After the committee updates, the Montana State University Extension Ranching Systems Team (a.k.a. Ranch CATS) had several members present to give a brief overview of their specific areas of focus. These members are available for any questions. Their contact information is available through MSU extension's website.

If you are interested in any the Winnett ACES programs or want to know more please contact Brent Smith at 406-599-5120 or Laura Nowlin at 406-429-4832. (Highlights of All ACES Meeting Minutes by Diane Ahlgren)

Saturday Afternoon on the Green ~ Diane Ahlaren

There was a tinge of green and temps were moderate for Pasture Golf on Sept 4th at the Winnett Arena. Sig Pugrud, Scott Kenner, and Skip Ahlgren coordinated the coarse and registration for team captains and their randomly drawn handicapped teammates. Two hours of good-natured competitive harassment and fun brought Megan Flint's team of Jay King, Leslie Iverson, Lloyd Rowton, and Kris Rowton to the winner's circle. Registration proceeds went to the Winnett ACES.

The afternoon continued with burgers, brats, and sides as a sendoff dinner for Carie and Cha Hess as they move on to new ventures in Billings. Carie received kudos and acclaim for a job well done for the last 13 years as Administrator at the Conservation District.

The pleasant evening was ended with cake and ice cream in celebration of the Petroleum County Conservation District's 70th Birthday.

If you would like to donate to the Winnett Times Newsletter Project PLEASE SEND YOUR TAX DEDUCTABLE DONATIONS TO: Winnett ACES, PO Box 118, Winnett, MT 59087 with "Newsletter" in the Memo.

Thank you to Winnett ACES for being our Non-Profit Sponsor. Winnett ACES has agreed to handle funds on our behalf. Without their support & the support of the community this project could not happen. Thank you!

A huge THANK YOU to David Ponte, Publisher of "The Roundup Record Tribune & Winnett Times" for giving us copyright permission to use the old "Winnett Times" name on our newsletter. It has nostalgic value to our community and we appreciate your generosity!
